Air Pressure. It is proved that when air is heated it rises, and also that it expands, and perhaps some of us are now wondering why it should rise. This is a rather hard subject, but perhaps we may be able to explain it. In the first place air presses on the earth everywhere with a certain pressure. This is because of the attraction of gravity, which pulls upon or gives "weight" to every form of matter, whether solid, liquid or gaseous. Now, air is matter in a gascous form. It has very little weight, but still it has some. Close to the surface of the earth air presses heaviest because it is pressed down, not only by its own weight, but also by the weight of the air above, and the air presses in all directions as well as downward, because it is so easily moved and can be pushed or made to flow from one point to another very much like water. As we go up from the surface of the earth the air presses less and less, because there is less air above it. If you think this out, you will see that any body surrounded by air, like a box held in the hand, for instance, will be more pressed upon on its lower side or bot-tom than on its top.—Philadelphia

Ledger.

In the days when the late archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Frederick Temple, swas master of Rugby he sentenced to expulsion a boy who was innocent of the offense charged against him, but who could not clear himself without exposing the real offender. The lad made up his mind to bear the punishment and wrote to his father saying that he was sure his family would rather have him expelled than know him to be a sneak.

The father promptly sent the letter to

Dr. Temple, calling attention to a postscript in which the boy said he wished the doctor could understand the matter and added, "Temple is a beast, but he is a just beast."

It is on record that Temple did understand, and the boy was not expelled. Dr. Temple, grim old man that he was, was always proud of the title "a just

A Choking Dog.

Dogs frequently choke. A bone, a nail or a piece of tin gets in the throat, and there is great danger of leath before the arrival of the surgeon. Many of them do die, but there is no reason for this, for it is easy, without the slightest danger of getting bitten, to put the hard in the mouth of a dog and to draw out or push down the obstruction that is choking it. A bandage a handkerchief or towel will do-is passed between the teeth and over the upper jaw, and in a similar way another bandage is passed between the teeth and over the under jaw. One person, holding the ends of these two bandages, keeps the dog's mouth wide open. 'A second person can then with perfect ease and safety put his fingers down the animal's throat and relieve it.

Water Birds.

Water birds, singular as it seems, are the only ones whose skins never by any chance get touched by water. So long as they are alive and long after they are dead they float with an air chamber all round their bodies, cunningly contrived of waterproof feathers closely overlapping each other. Thus, in a sense, water birds may be distinguished from all others by the fact that they never wash, though we can hardly blame them for that, because if water could penetrate between their feathers the poor things would never be dry.

The Easy Pill.

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organ involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble, E. S. Leadbeater & Son.

dered, she goes about pale-faced, hollow-eyed and haggard, a piteous contrast to the blooming health of her former self. But over 1,000,000 women have found health again by taking Wine of Cardui. As a regulator of the menstrual periods Wine of Cardui has never been known to fail. It has seldom failed to restore perfect health, even in the most persistent and aggravated case of weakness. Miss Ida M. Snyder, of No. 535 Bergem Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has used her into a new life. Health to Miss Snyder is worth a great deal. She is an attractive young woman with intellectual attainments and she occupies the position of Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club. This position marks her as a person of intellect, culture and refinement and it speaks highly of the respect and trust her fellow women have in her. She writes:

"If women would pay more attention in the local specified and the properties of the Brooklyn in the local specified and the many cures they are given credit for. David Hughlitt, of 10th and Susquehanna Ave., Phila-delphia, says: "I have found Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup a positive cure for coughs and colds, especially where the cough is hard and distressing. It heals the throat and cures the inflammation. It is the best medicine I have ever used for diseases of the throat and lungs."
